TO THE HONORABLE SCHOOL BOARD AND CITIZENS OF JEFFERSON

Gentlemen:

This is the sixteenth in the series of annual reports of the superintendent of schools of your town. It is the first of the present writer. Many changes have taken place during these years, some of policy, some of equipment and practically all of the personnel connected with the schools.

General.

The most far reaching of these changes have been the advancement and progress made possible by the legislation of five and six years ago. As a result the state program of studies has been helpfully revised and better organized, a sympathetic understanding of school needs by the state officials has been developed and a somewhat more generous allotment of funds to our use has been made possible. During this same period tremendous world changes have been taking place. The great war has been fought and won. This has resulted in great social crises among nations and people. Never so much as now has there been the need for an intelligent, educated citizenry to meet the emergencies of life. To cope with the newer civilization and the newer social and economic ideals requires that our schools rest not upon a few steps of progress, but that they be shaped by evolution and development in such a way as to make it possible for our present day boys and girls to select the worth while values in genuine living, thereby becoming able to meet the everyday problems of the life of their generation.

• It has been a pleasure to become associated with you, with the teachers, with the boys and girls and with the citizens of the town. One of the pleasurable experiences has been to find the work so well organized and so effectively carried on by my predecessor in office. To be able now to have him as an associate is a privilege not accorded to every man entering upon a new undertaking.

Administration.

• The general work of the schools has gone forward much along the lines previously planned. It has been my policy to make only such changes as the immediate situation seemed to require.

About the usual number of visits to the schools have been made, teachers' meetings have been held, suggestions and criticisms offered when needed. Some testing has been done although not as much as desirable because of the inadequate facilities for the handling of the same and the great amount of time involved if they are to be made of value in the improvement of instruction. For after all this is one of the important contributions to be made by a superintendent. Your superintendent has also carried on the clerical and office work without more than casual assistance. So much more needs to be done that it would be wise economy for the town to do its part in providing permanent clerical service for the union as is done in many other unions of the state.

High School.

The plan of the schools for six years elementary work and six years for the junior and senior high schools is in keeping with modern educational movements. It may be seriously questioned whether or not so few pupils as are in the Jefferson high school fully justify the expenditure necessary. This phase of the work should be studied thoughtfully to determine if it be not wiser to do much better a part, than to do fairly well the whole.

It can be said with assurance that the school is now in good condition, school progress is being made, decent and orderly conduct prevails and a spirit of good citizenship pervades the student body. To this is being added closer attention to worth while work. There still remains the necessity for such modification of studies as will result in increased efficiency.

Elementary Schools.

On the whole the quality of instruction in the elementary schools is good. In most cases the pupils are learning commendable habits of behavior. Their attitude toward their work is mostly satisfactory and they are making progress in the fundamentals. Much depends upon the teaching force for continued and greater progress. The trite saying "as is the teacher so the school" is evident to the casual as well as the constant visitor. It is urged that in the selection of teachers for future vacancies, care be taken to secure only trained teachers, those without too many outside interests and those fully qualified by temperament, environment and training for the great work of educating the youth of today.

Health.

The usual health inspection of the children has been performed with due care. Parents do not always realize that they can do much to make or mar the future welfare and usefulness of their own children by neglect of some of the simple laws of health. Notices sent to homes by the physician are either ignored or become of little value because no action is taken. If any parent knows from an authoratative source that his child has poor eyesight, poor nutrition, poor teeth, poor tonsils or what not, immediate action should be taken to correct the condition thus ensuring greater school progress and better physical development. The extension of the plan for hot lunches for those obliged to carry their dinners has resulted in improved attitude of pupils as well as better capacity for work. This plan should be undertaken by all teachers and parents in those schools where even two or three carry their dinners.

Repairs.

The wishes of the town have been carried out in connection with repairs to the several schools. New school desks have replaced the dilapidated furniture in the High School. The room for the assistant teacher there has been enlarged and the interior walls repainted. Painting and renovating was done also at the Meadows and Riverton Schools adding much to the cleanliness and wholesomeness of those buildings. Other minor repairs have been made in keeping with the policy of keeping school property in such condition as to avoid deterioration. Other improvements should be made reasonably soon. Particularly there is need for a new heating plant at Starrking, painting of the interior walls a lighter shade to improve lighting conditions, so also there is need of better lighting in the upper room at the Meadows school, new school desks in that building and a new heating plant there. The present desks are old and not suited to the pupils, the stoves are so badly out of repair as to be almost a fire hazard but for extra precautions. The High School basement could be made of much more use were the heating room to be provided with a concrete floor thus becoming more of a workroom and less of a "catch-all" for refuse of all types. It will not be many years before this building will require additional paint at which time a change in color may be desirable.

Coordinated Effort.

There appears to be some lack of coordination and uniformity among the schools and some lack of knowledge on the part of teachers, citizens and others as to sources of authority and action in the management and control of the schools. In the interest of a more complete organization it is suggested that regular committee meetings be held with the superintendent and all members present. It is suggested that rules and regulations be formulated and adopted so that all may know lines of procedure and what to expect as to vacations, holidays, no school days, etc., without the present uncertainty and hesitancy in action.

The preceeding considerations and comment serve as the basis for the following recommendations:

I. That the item of the budget for administration be sufficiently large to make possible a permanent secretary in the office of the superintendent of schools.

II. That the health work be continued and extended to more adequate school lunches and better playground facilities.

III. That new heating plants be installed in the Starrking and Meadows schools. That the upper room at the Meadows school be remodelled similar to the lower room. That new desks be provided for that building.

IV. That regular meetings of the committee be held and that appropriate rules and regulations be adopted.

It is in no sense a perfunctory duty for me to express full appreciation for the cordial reception and co-operation received from the committee, citizens, teachers and pupils during these first few months of my service. Such a spirit will ultimately result in better schools and a more thorough knowledge of school needs.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT J. FULLER,
Superintendent of Schools.
